
June 2023 Community Report

In the News:

July is Disability Pride Month: Celebrate a Universal Cause

People with disabilities have faced social stigmas and judgment for centuries. Logically the development and establishment of disability pride month is closely intertwined with the civil rights movement. This year's Disability Pride Month marks the 33rd anniversary of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), culminating decades of unwavering commitment by disability rights advocates.

Disability Pride is intersectional, recognizing how society treats people with disabilities, while reflecting on how other marginalized sectors within the community are also treated, including women, people from various ethnic and racial backgrounds, and members of the LGBTQ community. Disability pride month and representation of the community within the disability pride flag, its design, and disability pride month colors advocate for integration that ensures barrier-free accessibility for everyone.

Our local boards provide programs, services, employment opportunities and support to individuals and families with developmental disabilities.
